The Elks.

The Elks opened the season of 1878-9 last night at the Odd-fellows' Temple, corner of Fourth and Home streets. The session was a grand success, the hall being crowded to its utmost, and the audience being of the most enlightened and refined of our city. most enlightened and refined of our city. The programme was a select one and well rendered. Mr. Waters opened the exercises with a couple of excellent piano solos. Mrs. Aldrich read "Cleopatra" and an original poem. She was followed by Mr. Skidmore with a tenor solo, and Miss Ziegler, who sang "Consider the Lilies" and a Scotch ballad. Her singing was very pleasing. Mr. J. B. McCormick came next and read "People will Talk." Then followed, after an intermission. Sanford and Wilson in "People will Talk." Then followed, after an intermission, Sanford and Wilson in "musicalities," Miss Julia Simon recited "Moses," and Mr. Robert Stickney sang "Sweetheart, Good-by." Mr. A. Minor Griswold eloquently delivered "Spartacus' Address to the Gladiators," and followed it with "Big Ingin Over the Rhine." WHAT CONSTITUTES A LEGITIMATE LOSS?-It is often a perplexing question to fire underwriters to determine what constitutes a legitimate loss. It is, of course, easy to sersupposed to be the work of an incendiary. the the question by legal means, but this is It spread so rapidly that the families of a conclusion which few companies regard W. Butler and Mr. Devey, who occupied No. 108, bad barely time to escape. The families of Mr. Fritz, Mr. Joice and a widow run the risk of being thought litigious. For this reason precedents exist for the pay-ment of losses which few persons would suppose were covered by an ordinary poli-cy of insurance. For instance, the servants in a household went to bed one windy night, leaving the drafts in the kitchen range turned on. The surrounding masonry was so well put together that the heat was not communicated to the wood-work of the room, but when the cook came down the next morning she found her range had been completely ruined by over heating. Was that, too, by fire in one of its many forms. This might have been a case in which a jury would have sustained an insurance company in refusing to pay; but the cor-poration in question decided not to make the attempt, and paid the loss, amounting to several thousand dollars, in full.-[New

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past: To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everybody and everything save the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy which an honest newspaper need have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was everenjoyed by any other American journal.

wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other American journal.

The Sun is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the peor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives erat. It does not take its one from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when men and measures are in agreement with the Constitution and with the principles upon which the Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrag ous conspiracy of 1876, by which a man not elected was placed in the President's office, where he still remains—it speaks out for the right. That is The Sun's idea of independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.
